

The liverie of the warlike Maide appeares,
Pure red, and white, for yet no beard has blest him.
And in his rowling eyes, sits victory,
As if she ever ment to correct his valour:
His Nose stands high, a Character of honour.
His red lips, after fights, are fit for Ladies.

Emil. Must these men die too?

Per. When he speakes, his tongue
Sounds like a Trumpet; All his lincaments
Are as a man would wish 'em, strong, and cleane,
He weares a well-steel'd Axe, the staffe of gold,
His age some five and twenty.

Mess. Ther's another,
A little man, but of a tough soule, seeming
As great as any: fairer promises
In such a Body, yet I never look'd on.

Per. O, he that's freckle fac'd?

Mess. The same my Lord,
Are they not sweet ones?

Per. Yes they are well.

Mess. Me thinkes,
Being so few, and well dispos'd, they show
Great, and fine art in nature, he's white hair'd,
Not wanton white, but such a manly colour
Next to an aborne, tough, and nimble set,
Which shoves an active soule; his armes are brawny
Linde with strong sinewes: To the shoulder peece,
Gently they swell, like women new conceav'd,
Which speakes him prone to labour, never fainting
Vnder the waight of Armes; stout harted, still,
But when he stirs, a Tiger; he's gray eyd,
Which yeelds compassion where he conquers: sharpe
To spy advantages, and where he finds 'em,
He's swift to make 'em his: He do's no wrongs,
Nor takes none; he's round fac'd, and when he smiles,
He shoves a Lover, when he frownes, a Souldier:
About his head he weares the winners oke,
And in it stucke the favour of his Lady:
